As Harlow Council faces up to difficult financial decisions as a result of cuts in Government grants, it has launched a major public consultation on which services it should provide and which it should cut.

The results of the consultation, along with a raft of other measures, will help in the preparation of the 2015/16 budget.

The authority funds both discretionary services - those which it is not legally obliged to provide - and statutory services which are required by law. Paddling pools, The Playhouse theatre and Pets' Corner - which this year cost the taxpayer £1.09m - are among the services which could be cut.

Recycling costs top £1.4m, while £530,000 is given to local voluntary and charity organisavoluntary and charity organisations and £350,000 is spent on tackling antisocial behaviour.

Council leader Jon Clempner said there were no easy decisions. For example, scrapping recycling services would incur financial penalties.

"When looking at our budget choices I believe the fairest thing to do is to give everyone the opportunity to have their say and take part," he said.

Conservative opposition leader Andrew Johnson warned: "If there is going to be consultation on the budget, which is the right thing to do, then it should be more comprehensive"

And Conservative deputy leader Cllr Joel Charles added: "I am deeply concerned that Labour-run Harlow Council is planning to increase council tax for a third year. There are also questions over the long-term future of our community services.

"I fear that the Labour Party will attempt to use this consultation to justify further council tax increases and cuts to popular services."

POPULAR services are at risk as Harlow Council looks at ways to plug a £5.3m budget shortfall over the next four years.

The cash-strapped authority has this week embarked on a major public consultation exercise which will give residents the chance to say which services they think it should provide and which it should Cut.

Cllr Jon Clempner, leader of the Labour-controlled council, said:

"We're absolutely exploring every possibility but I think it's important that we are open and transparent about the decisions we make."
Since 2011 the amount of money the council receives from the Government which funds 46 per cent of services - has been cut by almost 50 per cent. This is expected to continue with an expected further reduction of 16 per cent in 2015/16 and 10 per cent in 2016/17.

The consultation includes funding choices for more than 20 differ-ent services the council provides or pays for directly, including The Playhouse, Pets' Corner and the town's paddling pools.

There are also questions on council tax levels and what residents consider to be priorities for making the town a better place to

"In the last two years the council has done well to minimise the impact on services but we want to be clear and open with residents about the financial challenges we face in balancing budgets now and in the future," said Cllr Clempner.

"I'm not about to make a decision because it's convenient but what I'm interested in is what's best for Harlow and what's sustainable in the long term, and that includes looking at reserves.

PADDLING POOLS

"As a council you can't continue to have your grants reduced without any impact on services and we want to know what is important to our residents. This is the start of an on-going conversation with residents about the decisions we will need to take.

"I genuinely want to explore how we can engage, particularly when I have to make a decision that's unpopular.

"When looking at our budget choices I believe the fairest thing to do is to give everyone the opportunity to have their say and take Referring specifically to The Playhouse, he said: "It's difficult to see how that could continue without some form of council funding."

Surveys have been sent to a random sample of 2,000 households across the town. However, the consultation is open to everyone.

Residents can take part online at www.harlow.gov.uk/consultation or by picking up a printed copy from the Civic Centre or by phon-ing Contact Harlow on (01279) 446655.

Why the delay?"
The results of the consultation will be published along with the council's 2015/16 budget proposals when they are announced early next year.

Top of the list for council tax but bottom for improvements

SIR I don't think many Church Langley residents would recognise the picture painted by J.M.Gamble in his letter ('It seems favourably', June 19).
Essex County Council does not control the buses. As many residents told me recently. the bus operators have reduced the number of buses. Whereas Southern Way has many junctions for residents of Staple Tye, Church Langley has only one – close to the congested Clock Tower roundabout.

They will agree, however, that Church Langley receives special treatment from Harlow Council such as the misappropriation of £400,000 from the Church Langley fund to fill their budgetary black hole, but restored by a Conservative administration through sound financial management. sound financial management.

South mancial management.
Church Langley received only half the amount for ward improvements than all the other wards in Harlow. And despite paying more council tax than any other area of the town, they still can't get the grass cut, the bushes trimmed and the pavements repaired.

Favourable treatment? I don't think so. Cllr Simon Carter (Conservative) Mark Hall Moors, Harlow

Dictionary definition of village fits Church Langley to a T

SIR With reference to the letter from J.M Gamble regarding the "village" status of Church Langley, I was moved to find the Oxford English Dictionary's definition of the word.

Village, it says, is a group of houses, larger than a hamlet and smaller than a town situated in a rural area. Well, that seems to fit our "village" status just perfectly. It is true that it requires a 10-minute bus journey to reach the town of Harlow itself, but we are very fortunate to live in such a well-serviced area. However, be assured I frequently visit the town centre and the many facilities and shops it possesses.

Mr Gamble's use of the word "favouritism" is clearly out of context and one cannot help wonder what could have ruffled his feathers in such a manner.

SIR I completely agree with your correspondent Ted Bolwerk over the the lack of police standards in Harlow (Letters, June

I have recently moved back to Harlow after 20 years living in London. After a month or so I commented to my brother that I hardly see any police cars in Harlow at all and the standard of driving of many drivers is woeful.

I have never encountered so many people on mobile phones and the non-use of indicators.

It's lovely to be back home but let's see standards rise please. Get rid of the druggies, sort out the blasé policing to drivers and get the potholes filled in properly, not just bunging in a bit of Tarmac.

Decision is bound to have an affect on the quality of service

SIR If you are cutting the expenditure and excluding the guidance of a centre of excellence and post graduate teaching Hospital like Moorfield's Eye Hospital, I fail to see how quality of service cannot be affected in a negative way ("Changes will give eye patients an even better service at PAH." June 19).

The consultant we have from Moorfields is one of the best in the country. You cannot replace that level of skill with lower grade resources and not notice a reduction in quality of service. It just isn't probable. Earlier this week we raised a written complaint about the poorer quality of clinical service from the non-Moorfields resources that PAH is now providing in the AMD clinic. We await a response from the hospital about what additional training they are going to give these resources.

School's pupils to sit two GCSEs from age of 13

PUPILS at a Harlow secondary school will sit ing GCSE examinations from the age of 13 under a new structure starting in the autumn.

Burnt Mill Academy will be introducing a new timetable which will see lessons extended from 60 to 100 minutes to allow students to complete GCSE courses in a year.

Qualifications in subjects including Latin and classical studies will also be available.

Year 9 and 10 students at the First Avenue school will work to the new timetable, choosing two GCSE subjects to study throughout the year. By the end of Year 9 they will sit two GCSEs and will then choose a further two to study in Year 10. Pupils in Years 7 and 8 will continue with the existing lesson structure.

Assistant headteacher Paul Williams said the reason behind the changes is to ensure Burnt Mill students can take options they enjoy studying without dropping core subjects.

"There is a big emphasis nationally on students getting qualifications in subjects which will give them a good start in life," he said.

"This way, we can encourage them to take those subjects they want to give them a real breadth and variety without having to make a decision to drop a core subject such as modern foreign languages to study dance.

"We feel these subjects can be as

He said: "The new curriculum structure creates more time. It will enable students to complete their option GCSEs in just one year. By the time the traditional exam season arrives for them in Year 11 they will already have six qualifications under their belts.

PLANS have been drawn up for the demolition of shops in Little Walk to allow "future redevelopment" of Harlow town centre.

The application has been submitted to Harlow Council on behalf of Sapphire (Harlow) Nominee Limited.

A statement submitted with the application says the demolition of Little Walk will help to "facilitate future redevelopment" while the clearance of the site will "assist in the delivery of regeneration".

The shops fronting Little Walk in West Gate and Broad Walk will be retained but their rear walls will be weatherproofed during the demolition process. The existing access points will be blocked off with hoarding while the work takes place.

Alex Wagstaff of asset managers Addington Capital said: "Since the centre was purchased in March 2011 we have invested over £4m in improving the Harvey Centre with the refurbishment of the interior malls, creating larger units and subsequently letting them to national retailers to enhance the tenant

Midnight walkers put the fun in fundraising

HUNDREDS of people raised thousands of pounds for St Clare Hospice when they took part in Saturday's Midnight Walk organisers of the annual event-now in it sixth year - hope the final total will be in the region of £50,000, enough to cover the costs of running the inpatient unit for two weeks or the recently-extended community service for six weeks.

This year many of those taking part took up the challenge of dressing up for the '80s-themed fundraiser.

Once again the top deck of the Water Gardens car park was cordoned off to allow the 612 walkers - who sported the new-look purple and yellow Midnight Walk T-shirts - to enjoy the music and take part in a warm-up routine before setting off on either the 5km or 10km route.

Some groups were dress as their favourite '80s cartoon characters including He-Man, Bananaman, Danger Mouse and characters from Button Moon.

The Mooners team included Denise Handleigh, Leigh Turner, Michelle Barham, Yvonne Field and Natasha Damiral, who said: "My husband's mum will be using St Clare Hospice's services soon for palliative care so this is for her. "We decided to dress up as characters from Button Moon as it was one of our favourite shows when we were younger." St Clare Hospice chief executive Tanya Curry described the fundraising efforts of the walkers as "unbelievable". Organisers have apologised after walkers arriving at the Water Gardens by car were charged to park. Elizabeth Palfreman, St Clare's director of fundraising and marketing, said the car park forms part of the Water Gardens Shopping Centre but the day-to-day running is contracted to a car parking management company. Revenue is forwarded to Harlow Council which grants permission to allow free parking for an event. "Unfortunately, due to an oversight on our part, permission to allow free parking had not been secured," she said. "We are very grateful to the Water Gardens centre management for their support of our Midnight Walk over the years and appreciate the decision they took on the night not to issue any penalty notices to customers for non payment of parking fees for the duration of the event."

Harlow a key target for Labour says Balls

as a must-win seat if it is to form the next government, shadow chancellor Ed Balls told supporters when he visited the town on Thursday.

Mr Balls joined Harlow parliamentary hopeful Suzy Stride. Labour councillors and party supporters at The Garden of India restaurant in Bush Fair.

The event, which was held to launch Labour's jobs guarantee in the town, was also described by Ms Stride as a celebration of the party's successes in the past year.

Mr Balls, who has previously visited the town to discuss the so-called 'bedroom tax', arrived in Harlow after spending the day in Edinburgh where he campaigned for a 'no' vote in the Scottish independence referendum. He told the Star: "Suzy is a very good candidate and this is a swing seat. If we are going to form a majority in 2015 and a real working majority, seats such as Harlow and in this region are important.

Elections are won and lost in He added: "When we look at results from local and European elections it is clear that Harlow residents are not satisfied with what has happened. We have to show them that we will provide jobs for the young, to give people better skills, British investment and energy prices."

Ms Stride said: "We are here to launch our jobs guarantee campaign which will help many people across Harlow who do not have work and we are saying we will pay for it with a tax on bankers

"Tonight is about the jobs guarantee and a celebration of everything that has happened over the last year.

Looking forward to next year's general election, she added: "It is up to the people in Harlow who they want to be their MP, but talking on the doorsteps and at our pizza and politics events the issues are jobs, homes and energy

County gears up for arrival BIANCA CASTRO bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk EXCITEMENT is building as the of Le Tour

clock ticks down to the arrival of the Tour de France in Essex on Monday. Organisers were this week carrying out final assessments of the route and making their final checks to ensure stage three of the Tour, which starts in Cambridge and passes through North Weald and Epping on its way to London, runs smoothly.

The sprint section will take place along Epping High Street and car owners have been warned that vehicles parked in Palmers Hill and the High Street may need to be moved before 4pm the previ-

Any vehicles left parked in either road could be moved if they are obstructing the event organisers from building the infrastructure needed for the sprint section.

A programme of road closures will be in force from 8am-5pm on the day and a number of bus services will be affected. Full details are available at www.letouressex.

Essex county councillor Ann Naylor, cabinet member for pub-lic health and wellbeing, said: "While we are making final preparations it is also really important that members of the public are too. I'd encourage everyone to ensure they know when the roads close in their area and how they will be affected.

"Roads around the county will be busy and there will also be disruption to some public trans-port so it is really important to get all the information you need and plan ahead.

"If you have to work on the day have you made arrangements to work at home, or if you are a business have you got your business continuity plan in place?"

"The Tour de France coming to Essex is going to be the most exciting day of the year and we want people to make the most of

The West Essex Clinical Commissioning Group is also advising people in the area to consider their health needs ahead of the Tour's arrival.

While patients will still have access to GP services, they are also invited to check the availability of their GP surgery as those affected by the route may be running an amended schedule of

Harlow GP Rob Gerlis, chairman of the West Essex CCG, said:
"People are being given lots of information ahead of this exciting event so our message is simply to consider your medication needs ahead of Monday.

"We'd also like to echo the advice to plan your journey ahead of the day as road closures may affect access to your local GP surgery and pharmacy.'

John Curry, vice chairman of Cycle Harlow and secretary of Stort Valley CTC, said: "This is an opportunity of a lifetime to see the world's biggest free-to-view

'We will be riding from the Hub & Spoke cycle centre in Bush Fair and anyone with a bicycle who is comfortable riding on the highway is welcome to join us - the more the merrier.

"It's a huge event right outside our doors. We will get the group to a good location where we can watch the cyclists zoom past at 30 miles an hour and then we'll go to a pub to watch the rest.'

TRADE AND PUBLIC

ERE in Harlow and the surrounding area, we have a number of smaller, independent stores that rely on local trade to keep them going in the face of fierce competition.

Larger stores and out-of-town shopping centres all take their toll on the smaller businessman but now is the time to show support for the independents.

July is Independent Retailer Month, an annual campaign that aims to highlight the important role that smaller, local independent retailers play.

It isn't simply the communities these businesses serve that benefit, it is the local economy they contribute to and the retail sector as a whole. So the

We all know the benefits of shopping locally. Apart from the obvious support for our local traders, their suppliers and the people they depend on to run their businesses, it also boosts the local economy and enables local businesses to prosper and grow.

BIANCA CASTRO

THIS week the Alzheimer's Society launched its Right to Know campaign to ensure nobody in the east of England is denied access to information and support following a dementia diagnosis.

There are currently more than 800,000 people in the UK with dementia and about 1,000 Harlow residents are living with the condition.

Two years ago Prime Minister David Cameron set a national challenge to make communities more dementia friendly, increase public understanding of the condition, address the quality of care provided to sufferers and give a boost to research to find a cure

The Right to Know campaign has been launched to voice the concerns of people affected by dementia. A poll of people with dementia, carers and people with a family member of friend with the condition found that 97 per cent of respondents agreed the Government should be doing more to support people who have been diagnosed.

There are many types of dementia and all types are progressive, symptoms include memory loss, difficulties with thinking, problem solving or language. Dementia is often seen as a condition affecting the older generation but for couples like Roger Barnacle and his wife Donna, of Berecroft, Harlow, this is not always the case.

Roger suffered from lapses of memories for three years before he was diagnosed with dementia in September last year. He is 54.

Donna, 67, is now his main

"Everyone seems to be over 70," she said, "but it doesn't just affect older people. Roger is 54 and I have found that there isn't as much available for him because of his age.

"I thought it was something that affected an older person. I never dreamt that someone with his age could be affected.

"He has only been diagnosed since September but he had some kind of memory loss for three years before that.

The couple attend memory classes together and Donna also attends a carers meeting. "I don't know what we would do without the memory classes," she said. "There are not many younger people there but it's a great group."

At first Roger found it hard to adjust but with the help of the memory club the couple, who have been married five years, are coming to terms with the situation.

"We speak to who we can, go to where we can, we try whatever is on offer and I think that's important. People caring for people with dementia should let them try what they want and see what they are comfortable with. "I do wish there was a club for my husband's age group. Roger wants to do things and he cannot, but an older person may look at it differently.

"Dementia can affect anyone. My worries at first were handling it the right way and at first I wasn't on the ball, but now I am getting

She added: "I also think it's important that people talk about dementia. The biggest issue is that people don't understand. It's important to make someone with dementia feel comfortable and treat them like you would treat any other person. Treat them like human beings.

"There is not enough awareness about dementia and the fact younger people are being affected by it." Harlow MP Robert Halfon works closely with the local branch of the Alzheimer's Society and is a vociferous supporter of its

Getting behind the challenge to make Harlow a dementia friendly community work and services.

"As part of the Prime Minister's wish to have dementia-friendly communities, the Harlow Alzheimer's Society has been working hard to make this happen here," he said.

"I helped to set up the initial meetings with stakeholders from all sections of our community and I also wrote to relevant community individuals asking them to support our desire to make Harlow a dementia friendly town.
"Harlow Alzheimer's Society is making great strides to make the town a dementia friendly community."

Erika Aldridge, the Alzheimer's Society regional operations manager for the east of England, said: "Like entering a maze blindfolded, too many people with dementia are left without a guiding hand to help them come to terms with this debilitating, terminal condition.

"The Government has shown clear commitment to improving the lives of people with dementia and action is under way to improve diagnosis rates. However, we cannot escape the lack of support following a diagnosis which leaves vulnerable people

"People living with dementia tell us that with the right support they can live well and Alzheimer's Society is here to support them, but a bold commitment is also needed to reach all those in need.

"We are urging the Government to ensure every person with dementia has access to a named contact – a dementia advisor or equivalent - who can help them come to terms with the diagnosis and help them find the support they need to live their life.'

be named in report after family's plea

THE family of young mum-to-be Eystna Blunnie, who was killed by her boyfriend in a brutal attack, have won their fight to have her named in an official report on the second anniversary of her death.

Miss Blunnie's family, supported by Harlow MP Robert Halfon, had asked that the findings of a domestic homicide review - which is carried out by community safety partnerships to ensure agencies are responding appropriately to vic-tims of domestic violence - to name Miss Blunnie and her unborn daughter Rose.

Names of the victims in domestic homicide reviews are usually excluded from reports to protect the identities of those involved. Only the names of the chairman and members of the review panel are included.

However, Mr Halfon has now received a letter from the Home Secretary, Theresa May, stating that the anonymity clause will not be applied in the case of Miss Blunnie and Rose when the review is published.

She said the decision had been taken after "careful consideration of the unusual and exceptional circumstances of the case"

Miss Blunnie was killed by her partner Tony McLernon in 2012, who was jailed for life with a recommendation that he stays behind bars for at least 27 years.

Mr Halfon, who raised the issue in the House of Commons, said: "I had a meeting after the debate in regards to having Eystna and her baby Rose named in the review.

"I was sent a letter saying they could not do anything because of legal reasons but I had a meeting with the Home Secretary and received the letter from Mrs May saying they have reconsidered their decision.

"Eystna's family wanted her and her baby to be named and I think it is important that they are. It brings some comfort to a very hard situation." In her letter to Mr Halfon, the Home Secretary said: "I was truly moved by the circumstances of this case and I would like to extend my sympathy to the family of Eystna and Rose.

"After careful consideration of the unusual and exceptional circumstances of this case, particularly Eystna's family's heartfelt plea, I have decided to authorise the publication of this report using the real names of both vic-

Her letter continued: "I hope that this decision will go some way towards providing closure to Eystna and Rose's family."

Ambulance service identifies priorities

RESPONSE times and the care of patients who have suffered a stroke or heart attack are among key areas identified for the region's ambulance service over the next 12 months.

In its 'quality account' report for 2013-14, the East of England Ambulance Service is also seeking to raise quality standards in sepsis care, the involvement of friends and family and frequent callers.

Under NHS regulations the service is required to set out clinical priorities for the coming year as well as reflecting on the past 12 months. The new executive Dr Anthony Marsh, who took over the post in

"We want patients to be seen promptly and to be treated to high clinical standards in order to recover quickly," he said.

"In the past year great strides were made in clinical improvements. These include wound closure training for paramed-ics, a clinical record viewer to support our hear and treat clinicians, and recognition of our dementia pathways as best Tracy Nicholls, acting head of clinical governance at EEAST, said: "The quality account enables our patients, the public and our stakeholders to measure our clinical focus and successes.

"A great deal of work goes into it to ensure we're identifying what it is our patients need from us in terms of care and good clinical practice.'

The trust is currently recruiting 400 student paramedics to help improve performance and is training up emergency care assistants and emergency medical technicians.

SCIENTISTS studying the poo of cavemen say that our prehistoric ancestors ate far more fruit and vegetables than had been

Researchers examined ancient specimens of poo, from people who lived in part of southern Spain 50,000 years ago. They found that while all the samples contained traces of meat, two showed signs of plant matter, suggesting they ate their veg too.

The study's authors say the results will help us understand how humans have come to dominate the planet.

By doing detailed tests on the ancient poo, the team found that while meat was the main part of Neanderthals' diet, they may have also consumed a fairly regular portion of plants, such as tubers, berries and nuts.

World Cup inspires GPs' poster design

DOCTORS at a Harlow surgery have been inspired by the World Cup as a way to promote the health and wellbeing of their patients.

The group of trainee GPs at the Lister Medical Centre in Staple Tye decided to raise awareness of various health issues by using facts about the countries playing in the tournament in Brazil.

They have designed a poster which will be submitted for a regional award later this month.

Dr Cyrus Fernandes, GP partner and trainer at the surgery, said: "The doctors have created a poster for health promotions and we decided to link it with the World Cup as its topical. Hopefully far more people will be interested in the facts and figures as a result.

"We have a lot of health gems that relate to several of the countries playing in the World Cup. So, for example, we have included Russia which has one of the highest rates of smoking in the world and Harlow has one of the highest smoking rates in the UK, so we use the fact to then promote other things the surgery can provide to help like our smoking cessation clinic."

THE warm-up event for this ear's summer Linkfest festival in Harlow Town Park went down a storm despite heavy rainfall.

The free show, which was headlined by 1980s charttoppers Dr and The Medics, was a prelude to the main two-day event in August.

Organiser Jamie Pring said: "All things considered there were an awful lot of people down there despite the rain. It was a better event than we could have expected when you think about the weather.

"Every band loved it and

He added: "Everything is already planned for Linkfest in August and this was a great teaser for it. Everything is booked and ready to go and it's going to be a brilliant event.

Linkfest's main event will be held in the Town Park on Saturday, August 23 and 24.

HARLOW Chorus is gearing up for the performance of a lifetime on Sunday, July 13 - the final day of the 2014 Thaxted Festival

Handel's Israel in Egypt, often called 'the other Messiah', is a theatrical telling of the Exodus story starting with the oppressed Israelites under the thumb of the Egyptian Pharaoh and ending with their liberation after Moses parts the waters

Five soloists and the excellent Brandenburg Sinfonia help tell the story but the real star of this show is the choir who sing of the various plagues sent down upon Egypt – rivers turn into blood, followed by frogs, flies, lice, locusts, hailstones, darkness and the smiting of Egypt's firstborns.

The second half is really an extended gloat by the Israelites over the fate of their former captors, but it is a glorious gloat. The first and last choruses both launch into an exultant shout of joy that 'the horse and his rider hath He thrown into the sea', choir and orchestra galloping furiously to a denouement. In between come a succession of choruses and arias that rehearse again, in some graphic detail, the miserable demise of the Egyptians and the panache with which God executed it.

Some may feel that this is a trifle unsporting but Handel, needing to find favour with his public and with aristocratic and royal sponsors, knew what buttons to press. Britain was on the brink of war with Spain and Handel unashamedly drew a connection between the Israelites "God's elect" - and the British of the late eighteenth century, whose monarch was allegedly appointed by God, and whose army and navy were capable of lethal, ruthless and unassailable powe

Community spirit - from gardens

AS towns increase in size and green space continues to come at a premium, urban community gardens are springing up to allow people in busy, often deprived areas, some space to recharge their batteries.

Many companies now see the need to support local green initiatives – Waitrose, Berkeley Homes and Boursin are just a few of the names to have supported community gardening projects and relevant charities. Fragrance brand Jo Malone London is also a big supporter of community gardens and is currently working with charities to help marginalised communities in key cities build and maintain beautiful, scented gardens.

It initially collaborated with the UK charity Thrive, which uses gardening to help those living with physical disability and mental ill health, to create an Old English Garden in London's Battersea Park in 2012, and has recently added a herb garden to the magnificent Redhall Walled Garden in Edinburgh, working with the Scottish Association for Mental Health.

The company is also working with Rotunda, a community centre in poverty-stricken Kirkdale, Liverpool, to create the Kirkdale Country Garden, which has just opened.

wnich has just opened.
"Our gardens are created to be therapeutic in the short term and life-changing in the long term," says Rachel Baker, general manager of Jo Malone London. The Kirkdale garden will be an educational project as well as a place for recreation. Community members will be encouraged to take entry-level horticultural courses as a pathway to employment and self-sufficiency.

So how can everyday gardeners replicate some of the magic of Redhall and Kirkdale Country Garden, bringing an air of peace and tranquility to their own Garden designer Andy Thomson of BCA Landscape, which has helped create the Liverpool garden, explains: "Generally it can help to keep things simple, don't make your garden too busy and over-complicate things. Find a quiet spot where you like to sit, perhaps at the end of the garden or in dappled shade. Then have a look around and see what is in your eyeline, what you can hear and what you can smell. If things are too busy then it probably won't be very conducive to creating an air of calm.

"Once you have picked your favourite spot in the garden, away from the make-shift football pitch and trampoline, you can then start to think about how to adapt the design of the space to best suit your needs

"A comfy chair or seat is a must – either fixed or moveable if you're chasing the sun/shade through the day. A scented climber to screen and soften an unsightly fence perhaps? We used jasmine officinale with Rosa 'Rambling Rector' or Rosa 'Gloire de Dijon'.

"In The Kirkdale Country Garden we are climbing these up hop poles and across wires above the harvest table to provide extra height and interest. Lowgrowing scented plants such as Thymus 'Purple Beauty' and Salvia officinalis [garden sage] are great as low-growing clump-forming plants with lovely scent on the edge of your border near a path

If you need a project for your mental

If you need a project for your mental wellbeing, what sort of garden might you choose?

"Limiting your palette of plants and planting in drifts or groups of three or five plants per species can help to create a more natural flowing feel," says Thomson.

"If all the plants have different shaped and coloured foliage and flowers it can be over-powering and too stimulating for the eye.

"In any one area, try and pick plants that have a Paul Forrest, senior horticultural instructor at Redhall and herb expert, says: "Most of the herbs in the garden have some kind of effect on physical and mental wellbeing. This is another driving factor in our choice of plants; chamomile, lemon balm, lavender, valerian and fennel to name a few."

Each project is supported and maintained through the sale of a Jo Malone London Limited Edition Home Candle, this year Silk Blossom, with a donation equal to the retail price going directly to the charities. For stockist details phone 0870 034 2411.

SHIA LaBeouf may have left the Transformers fold but the robots in disguise are back with a vengeance.

Director Michael Bay returns to helm this fourth instalment of the franchise based on the best-selling toys and does so with customary bombast.

Five years have passed since the battle of Chicago which provided the pyrotechnic-laden climax to Transformers: Dark Of The

The alliance between humans and the robots has been broken and an elite CIA unit named Cemetery Wind, under the control of Harold Attinger (Kelsey Grammer), now hunts the Transformers without mercy.

On a family ranch, struggling inventor Cade Yeager (Mark Wahlberg) discovers that the rusty truck he has just purchased is in fact Optimus

Prime (voiced by Peter Cullen). He attempts to keep the discovery secret but agents from Cemetery Wind descend on the homestead.

In the ensuing gunfight, Optimus protects Cade, his daughter Tessa (Nicola Peltz), her secret boyfriend Shane (Jack Reynor) and Cade's mechanic sidekick Lucas (TJ Miller).

The humans join forces with Optimus to reunite the surviving Autobots and they head into the desert to reconvene with Bumblebee, Crosshairs (John DiMaggio), Drift (Ken Watanabe) and Hound (John Goodman).

Together, the rebels must prevent fellow inventor Joshua Joyce (Stanley Tucci) from creating his own Transformer army led by the mighty Galvatron (Frank Welker).

COOLING London property prices have been all over the news recently.

When online estate agency Rightmove announced the capital's rapid pace of house price growth had slowed in June, the press had a field day. It was a welcome respite from the exhaustive World Cup coverage (for some of us).

Rightmove said the average house price has already fallen by 0.5 per cent over the month to £589,776. Although this is still 14.5 per cent higher than June 2013, it compares to a 0.1 per cent monthly increase in the average price for the whole of the UK to £272,275.

London's sharp increase in house prices in recent years has been fuelled by a powerful city economy, large inflows of foreign investment and a rising population that is expected to hit 10 million by 2030.

"The London market powers the rest of the UK, but is starting to run out of steam," said Miles Shipside of Rightmove. "While the legacy of rises in central London continues to ripple out to its better-value commuter belt fuelling price increases in all southern regions, London itself is now marking time.

Justin Godfrey at Savills in Bishop's Stortford has already seen an increase in people moving out of London to buy in the local

"We've been waiting for the capital's markets to cool off, and it seems that this is now happening," he said. "We are experiencing more and more London interest in Bishop's Stortford and the prime villages surrounding it often from buyers with family links to the area who are keen to return 'home'.

"The wide price gap between London and the regions makes houses here excellent value which, coupled with the lifestyle on offer, are very appealing."

■ IAIN DOOLEY

WITH the sun finally thinking about showing its face, can Audi's drop-top A3 emulate its tin-top cousin when it comes to winning the hearts, minds and chequebooks of prospective

That's the plan over the coming months, to see if the A3 Cabriolet can deliver on the important elements of compact hatch motoring – easy to drive and park, prove frugal at the pumps while adding a ray of sunshine to the ownership experience once the roof is down.

The omens are promising: a white car with a black fabric roof couldn't offer a more contrasting appearance if it tried. If I can't get into the 'summer groove' with this pearly bright combination, there's no hope for my ambitions as a sun worshipper.
Being a sport specification A3, it boasts a slightly lower ride height and firmer suspension set up than the lower spec SE. I've been here before with a regular A3 hatch and this combination is better than it sounds. That the car's optional 18-inch wheels

Fact File

Audi A3 Cabriolet 1.4 TFSI Sport

PRICE £32,065

ENGINE: TRANSMISSION: PERFORMANCE: ECONOMY: CO2 RATING:

1.4-litre petrol unit developing 140bhp 6-speed manual driving front wheels Maximum speed 135mph, 0-62 9.1s 114g/km

(default is 17-inch) also don't appear to hamper the ride quality is proof that Audi has come a long way in recent years when it comes to balancing a sporty ride with day-to-day comfort.

Lift the car's fabric lid and, with a few exceptions, this car's like the regular three-door A3, so forgive the whistle-stop tour in favour of focusing on said fabric

One particular benefit of sport spec ownership is a three-layer roof boasting a greater level of insulation over the standard item on lesser models. Certainly, with the roof up, the cabin ambience is suitably refined, although nothing short of a metal folding roof will come close to a genuine tin-top experience, whatever the car.

Of greater importance is the usability angle, and it doesn't get any easier than pressing the roof switch for 17 seconds and watching the top disappear into a dedicated space above the car's boot. That you can raise and lower the roof at up to 31mph is a welcome bonus, although installing the (optional) wind deflector does render the rear seats out of bounds.

Rear leg space is modest at best, though, so it's no great loss. On a more positive refinement note, engine choice is Audi's new 1.4-litre petrol unit complete with 'Cylinder on Demand' mode. This 140 horsepower unit is pleasingly quiet and delivers ample urge so long as expectations are sensible. However, to boost economy and reduce emissions, on a light throttle two of the four cylinders will shut down.

If it wasn't for the trip computer display alerting you to this 'twinpot' running mode you'd struggle to notice, although those with keen senses will detect a slightly off-beat engine resonance. And it's no gimmick; the instant fuel economy readout often jumps to 100-plus mpg around town, with the result that early running has seen close to 50mpg on a 30-minute mixed road run.

If that's not high-tech enough to impress, I've also got Audi's high-spec optional infotainment system to play with. Aside from DAB and Bluetooth, there's a comprehensive sat-nay, high-res screen and 4G-ready data connection for Google search, weather and traffic alerts and the inevitable social media integration. Plus, you can send destinations from Audi's dedicated website direct to the

So far, so seamless – and 4G is pretty quick.
Time will tell if the A3's boot proves big enough in every day use, while I predict an unhealthy relationship with the car's trip. relationship with the car's trip computer as I attempt to spend as much time as possible in twocylinder mode. Wish me luck.

Your CV

When you send your CV off to a potential employer, remember that you won't be the only one. Hundreds of other people could be applying for the job as well.

So what are you going to do to make you stand out from the crowd? Why should an employer take a chance on you instead of someone else?

Your CV is your first real chance to sell yourself to a potential employer. Most employers will scan through a CV in about 30 seconds so you need to grab their attention from the start - and make them want to invite you for an interview.

There are five main areas to consider when writing your CV:

- Make sure your CV looks the part. Your CV should look clean and tidy don't scrawl it out on a piece of A4 paper. If you haven't got access to a PC or printer, ask a friend or use your local library. Use a good quality paper and steer clear of fancy borders and front covers.
- Watch out for silly spelling and grammar mistakes. They make you look lazy and show employers that you don't really care. It's not difficult to do a spell check on your PC and if you're really stuck then don't just guess, reach for a dictionary. Get a friend to read through your CV for you a second opinion is always useful
- Make sure your CV is well organised. When you list your previous jobs, make sure the dates are correct and try not to leave any gaps. If you took time out to go travelling then say so employers won't mark you down just because you've tried something new.
- Don't waffle. Remember that employers don't have time to read every word of your CV. Long paragraphs and sentences put people off, so try bullet-points to break up text. Make sure your CV is no longer than two pages long employers don't want your life history, they just want to see that you've got what it takes to do the job.
- Don't list any failures. Employers have enough trouble finding someone who is right for the job they don't need help finding reasons not to employ you. If you have to include a mistake from your past, make sure you show the employer that you learnt something from the experience.

Keep it simple

Personal details

Start off with your full name, address, home and mobile phone numbers and email address. If you are offered an interview, the employer will want to get hold of you so give him as many options as possible.

Summary/professional profile

This is the No1 area for selling yourself. Set out your main skills and personal qualities but keep it interesting and tight - one paragraph should do to cover everything.

Education and qualifications

List your qualifications and education history, with the most recent first. You don't need to list the grades for each exam you have passed unless they were exceptional results - simply listing the number and type of exams you've passed is fine. Also, list any relevant professional organisations you belong to and training courses you have been on.

Work experience

Start with your most recent position and work backwards, giving addresses along with start and finish dates. Set out your main responsibilities, duties and most importantly achievements, along with any skills you picked up or improvements you made while you were there. This is a really important section in your CV so make it count - but don't waffle.

If you have not had a full-time job before, detail any part-time jobs you may have held or any placement you have been on.

Other skills

Set out any computer skills you may have and the software you are most familiar with. Can you type, do shorthand or speak a foreign language fluently? If you have a driving licence, let the employer know. If it's clean, tell them.

Interests & hobbies

Briefly list what you get up to in your spare time. Put down any positions you hold in clubs or associations, along with any responsibilities and achievements.

References

Make sure you have at least two people (including one from your previous or current job) who will tell an employer what a thoroughly nice person you are and what a potential asset to the company you would be. If you want to list them now make sure you include their name, job title, postal & e-mail address and contact phone numbers. Alternatively, just put "Available on request" so the employer knows to follow up references at a later date.

Add a covering letter

The main aim of a covering letter is to encourage an employer to give you a chance. You want them to read your CV, so sell it to them. You should always enclose a covering letter when applying for a job - most employers won't consider you unless you do.

A covering letter should let the employer know why you are interested in the job and why you think you can do it

The hints and tips below should point you in the right direction:

- Keep it simple. A covering letter should be short and to the point no more than six paragraphs.
- Mention the job. If you are replying to an advert, mention what the job is and where you saw it. The company may be advertising for other positions and it may not be clear which job you are applying for.
- Sell yourself. Explain why you are the perfect candidate for the job. Show off your strengths and experience. Refer to your CV if it goes missing then at least an employer will know that you've sent it.
- Check it for mistakes. A silly spelling mistake in a covering letter is likely to cost you your chance of getting an interview. Also, make sure it is addressed to the right person in the right department.

A covering letter can be just as important as a CV in getting you an interview. It's your first point of contact with your potential employer - so make it count.

Ex-Zimbabwe Test cricketer a thorn in side of bowlers

HARLOW suffered an agonising defeat in the penultimate over against Wickford in the Shepherd Neame Essex Cricket League division one.

Rehman Ahmed's side posted 276 in 48.5 overs, with every single batsman being caught out.

Opener Imran Qadir hit a classy 51, and Ahmed Khawaja (56) also put together a vital knock. Skipper Ahmed amassed 36 in four overs in an effort to accelerate the run rate, and Sukit Bastola built a steady 38.

After two hours' rain, Wickford had a revised total of 200 to chase down in 27

Former Zimbabwe Test cricketer Tinotenda Mawoyo and ex-Leicestershire and Essex county player Darren Robinson opened the batting for Wickford, and put pressure on the Harlow attack from the outset.

Mawoyo's century included four sixes. He was caught by Luke Monger off the bowling of Anthony Webb. Robinson made 60 before he was caught by Khawaja off Joe Riddell.

Harlow missed lots of chances as Wickford reached the total with an over

"We got both of their key men out but by that time it was too late," said Ahmed. "They only needed 20 to win by then. Joe Riddell was our best bowler – it was good to have him back in the side."

Harlow twos also faced Wickford and Mitch Howarde was the pick of the Harlow bowling with 6-40 as Wickford were dismissed for 150.

Harlow finished on 139-8 as Wickford took seven points and Harlow five.

The thirds travelled to Harold Wood, who scored 213 from 49 overs.

Harlow put on 80 before the first wick-

Yet once Harold Wood made the initial breakthrough, wickets fell regularly.

At 160-8 Harlow were staring at their first defeat of the season. However, colt pairing Dan Whellams (14 not out) and Callum Sykes (34 not out) steered the side to victory (214-8) with a ninth-wicket stand of 54. Harlow IIIs are now 17 points clear at the top of division one. Rob Coldwell's fourth XI lost top spot for a shock defeat to Waysteed 8. after a shock defeat to Wanstead & Snaresbrook VI.

Harlow scored 201, with Dip Basnet (53) the standout performer.

Wanstead, who fielded a team with nine different players from the previous meeting, reached the total (202-5) with four overs to spare.

Kinney's two runs in Northern Ireland

HARLOW Running Club member Andy Kinney completed two races in two days in Northern Ireland.

On Friday he ran the Ards Half Marathon in County Down Northern Ireland, finishing in 510th place out of 639 finishers in 2 hours, 9 minutes and 48 seconds

Then on Saturday, just a few miles away, he ran the Bangor Park Run 5K. He was 110th out of 179 finishers in 30.15.

Jamie Jephcott competed in the Endure 24 Hour race, run over a five-mile loop of forest trails at Wasing Park Estate, Aldermaston near Reading.

He suffered an injury after 14 hours, but still completed 11 laps and 55 miles in 14:13.22 for 73rd out of 121 competitors. Other results:- Gunpowder Park run 5K -Spencer Brooks 28th (from 121), 22.56; Pushpa Mistry 76th, 28.37. Basingstoke Park run 5K – Richard Solomons 44th (from 316), 21.31. City of London Mile – Mark Hayward 150th (from 609), 5.55.

Super lawn tennis club boys retain Essex county crown

HARLOW Tennis Club's boys 18 and Under team retained their Essex county title with a crucial win over Gidea Park LTC. A victory for Gidea Park would have allowed them to take the crown and this added an extra edge to the match that was played on the indoor courts at the Southern Way club in front of a good sized crowd.

Harlow's number one, Daniel Stevenson, got the home team off to a flying start with a crushing 6-2, 6-0, defeat of Daniel Mays.

The lead was further increased when Harry Melluish and Thomas Foxon recorded comforta-

Gidea Park's James

Sammons kept the match alive with a hard-fought three sets win over James Beswick, leaving Harlow needing to win one of the two remaining doubles rubbers to clinch the title. Stevenson and Melluish

TOP TEAM: The Harlow Tennis Club side which retained its Essex county title have been in fine form all season and they were comfortable 6-3, 6-3 winners, ensuring that Harlow kept the title for the second year running.

Naomi betters age group feat of Olympic gold hero

NAOMI Harryman can be rightly proud of herself – after smashing her existing U-17 girls' Harlow Athletic Club record and recording an overall points tally which exceeded that of Olympic Games GB gold medalist Denise Lewis at the same age. Harryman (16) won the heptath-lon event at the English Schools Athletics Association Combined Events East Anglia regional finals at Corby in Northamptonshire.

Her Essex Schools team now move on to the English National finals in Boston, Lincolnshire in August.

St Mark's pupil Harryman, right, was part of the four-strong Essex team which triumphed.

Speaking afterwards Harryman said: "I am thrilled with my points tally and I have beaten people like Denise Lewis on the all time list. I'm really looking forward now to the national championships in Harlow Athletic Club coach, Steve Lott added: "This is a phenomenal achievement and it's worth putting into context just what she has done. Her points tally puts her sixth on the all time list, above Denise Lewis and Kelly Southerton to name just two. Above her are current senior athletes, Morgan Lake and Katarina Johnson-Thompson and, hopefully, she could surpass their totals with better conditions at Boston. She is a perfectionist and I know that she will be spurred on by this knowledge to do even better. Many congratulations to her.' Day one was wet and not conducive to good performances.

However, Harryman began and ended the day with personal best (PB) performances. She ran the 80m hurdles in 12.1

seconds and concluded the day with a 200m PB of 26 1s. In between she jumped 1.69m in the high jump and threw 10.81m in the shot put.

He closed the gap a fraction coming second in the shot put (12.41m).

USA side play at Leisurezone

ESSEX Leopards will face Team USA Select when they make their debut at Harlow Leisurezone on Sunday September 14 (tip-off 3.15pm).

The American touring side bring over two squads each season to showcase players who have just graduated from college and are looking to further their careers in Europe.

"It's a great way to make our debut at Harlow, and we're hoping for a big crowd," said Essex Leopards general manager Dave Ryan "They'll provide a decent pre-season test for us."

Leopards have faced the American side several times over the last decade, including three times in the last two seasons. In 2012 a 93-88 loss in West London was followed up by a 92-88 victory at Crystal Palace, while last season saw a big crowd at the Brentwood Centre witness a 62-53 win.

Ticket details will be announced soon.

THE rain washed out the Shepherd Neame Essex League matches for Harlow Town's first and second teams. However, the thirds and fourths were in action. The threes scored 188 but lost to leaders Loughton by seven wickets.

A half century from Daniel Baldwin and 40 from Brian Lall were the highlights for Town.

Kieran Gleeson (63) top scored while Paul Blunt's 28 not out boosted the tally but the visitors won with

Legends turn out in force for Town's cricket spectacular

RY DAVID RIMMER

THE thrill of seeing legends in action was shared by all ages as the Lashings Allstars cricket team served up a treat when they played Harlow Town at Phoenix Park.

West Indian legendary openers Desmond Haynes and Gordon Greenidge gave a reminder of their

Darren Sammy, the Windies Test captain only recently, showed his class while ex-England paceman

Devon Malcolm gave a glimpse of his fast bowling prowess.

Sammy was a popular figure but all the stars had a welcoming approach and were well received.

Prior to Friday's two matches boys and girls played while Passmores Academy students gave the occasion a beat with calypso music.

This carried on into the cricket, which was marked by calcured

Lashings Allstars, a team of former Test cricketers which plays exhibition matches the world over, won their games against a Harlow Town chairman's team (10-over match) and then a 20-over game against Harlow Town's first team.

Former England and Essex medium fast bowler John Lever managed the Lashings team. He said: "I thought it went very well. It was very well organised and it helps when you have people like Greenidge and Haynes there.

"It was great to have a current player in Darren Sammy there and it was fantastic that all the players were willing to sign autographs

He added: "It was a good chance for the club to make some money and cricket needs to take all its opportunities as football is so dom-

Lashings batted first and made 167-7 in their 20 overs. Haynes and Greenidge came out to bat for possibly the last time together.

They total 121 years between them but the reflexes had not disappeared.

Haynes drove powerfully over the top and Greenidge hit majestically to leg in an opening stand of 45. Haynes made 22 and Greenidge scored 24.

Former India batsman Wasim Jaffer (27) played with style, while South African opener Herschelle Gibbs timed the ball effortlessly in making 52, as did Sammy who Danny Calver and Danny Farmer took two wickets each for Town.

In reply, Town faced some demanding bowling from Malcolm and former West Indies fast bowler Corey Collymore.

Malcolm worked up a fair pace, while Collymore was controlled apart from when Town number three Charlie Coleman drove him straight for four and then for six.

Coleman made 26, while Joe Holland made a fluent 37 despite being deprived of the strike for a fairly big proportion of his innings. Town skipper Ashley Alderson made a quick 37 which got him the man-of-the-match award and helped his side to end on a reasonable score of 154-9.

Alderson said: "It is unbelievable to play a team like that and great for the club. We bowled and fielded well. We did well to keep them down to under 200. Charlie Coleman was so nervous but he played well.'

He added: "It was nice to hit sixes off Saqlain Mushtaq (ex-Pakistan Test spinner) and Chris Schofield."
The first game, featuring players from lower Harlow Town teams, was the aperitif.

It featured big-hitting from Gibbs

(32) and Schofield (58 not out) in the Lashings' innings of 146-3. In reply, Town battled bravely before finishing on 86-3. Matt Hurley made 33 in just 16 balls. Jason Gladwin was dismissed lbw for a duck by Malcolm. "If you are going to get out like that it is not bad to do so against a bowler of Devon Malcolm's quality. It was a good ball," he said.

Lever added: "There were good players [for Harlow Town] but as with all club players it is a big leap up to the next step."

Gibbs was impressed with the club. "It was the best surface we have played on at clubs this year. It played well and was not as crusty as others. There was some talent there and there is something to work on."

in second place.
Steve Turnbull completed the podium with 8lbs 9ozs.

Twelve members of the Harlow-based club returned to the Hertfordshire GUC for their next outing, this time to Berkhamsted.

Steve Beehan gave a big fish masterclass when, after a 45 minute scrap, he landed a fine 16lbs 5oz specimen common carp on long-pole with a 3.3lb line and a small size 18 hook.

focus on his own displays.

He also felt the Rockets need a more inspirational leader at this time, and has endorsed the decision to appoint Kennett as the new captain.

The Rye House number one has certainly led from the front on his return to Hertfordshire this year, most recently dropping just one point against Glasgow.

Silver feels that although Bunyan had been a good captain, his thoughts were to be applauded. He said: "Edward will be an

Cowley's European mission after last 16 spot at British Champs

GOLFER Gabriella Cowley will turn her attention to the European Team Championships after narrowly missing out on the quarter-finals of the British Ladies Amateur Golf Championships at Royal St

George's in Kent. The 18-year-old, who lives in Threshers Barn in Harlow, will now represent England in the European Championships in Slovenia, starting next Tuesday.

She was beaten 3&2 on the 16th hole by Holland's No.19 seed Anne Van Dam in the third round (last 16) of the matchplay format in Sandwich.

Cowley, pictured right, was 1 down after six holes against Van Dam on Friday.

But she fought back and won a hole and so was all square after nine holes, the halfway stage. However, Van Dam stepped up a gear on the back nine at the world famous course, which hosted the Open back in 2011.

The Dutchwoman won three of the next seven holes to leave Cowley out as she was three behind with only two holes left to play.

Cowley was one of four English girls to reach the last 16.

Players from across the world, including, USA, Australia, Israel, India, France, Sweden, Germany and Holland competed in the tournament.

Cowley had hoped to emulate her achievements at the Portuguese Ladies Amateur Championships in the spring when she finished as runner-up. Earlier at St George's, she had won her two previous matches.

In round one, she defeated Sweden's Emma Henrikson 1 up after 18 holes in a very tight match on Thursday morning. She then defeated Spain's Luna Sobron 3&2 on the 16th hole in round two in the afternoon.

She had originally came through qualifying on Tuesday and Wednesday at St George's after rounds of 76 and 77.

The top 64 players qualified for the prestigious annual Championships.

The run of leading qualifier, Israel's Laetitia Beck, came to a halt when she lost on the 18th green to Scotland's Gemma Dryburgh on Thursday in the second round.

Denmark's Emily Pedersen won the championship.

'How I helped Nick KO Nadal'

Wimbledon star managed by Harlow tennis supremo

ANDY Murray appointed Amelie Mauresmo as his coach, but Rafa Nadal conqueror and new Wimbledon sensation Nick Kyrgios is managed by Harlow-based John Morris, writes ALAN SCOTT.

Aussie Kyrgios secured his best result to date when he defeated Nadal in a shock last 16 victory on Tuesday, and was set to meet Milos Raonic in the quarter-finals (Wednesday).

Morris (32), of Ram Gorse, is delighted with the progress the 19-year-old antipodean has made under his stew-

However, even he has been amazed by his stunning performances at Wimbledon, having only earned a wildcard for the tournament from the All England Club after winning a contest at Nottingham last week.

Morris manages Kyrgios at his GTC Academy at Gosling Park, Academy

Hailed as a future Grand Slam winner by fellow professionals, Kyrgios went into the record books when he beat Nadal in four sets.

He had already broken a record when he saved nine match points on his way to defeating 13th seed Richard Gasquet in the second round.

He is now undefeated in his last 13 matches on grass and has already earned £336,000 for his exploits.

Prior to this year Morris would have said his best surface was the hard court, but such has been his development he now believes Kyrgios can play equally well on any of the surfaces.

'He is the hottest thing in men's tennis at the moment," beamed Morris.

Kyrgios, from Canberra, won two ATP Challenge events in America earlier this year, becoming the youngest ever player to do so, and is rapidly making a big name for himself across the world

"I actually first spotted him at the Australian Open in 2010. He was short and stocky then. I could not believe his hand skills and I kept an eye on him and then signed him in time for Wimbledon 2012. At that time he was only 5ft 10, but now he is 6ft 4 and he has slimmed down.

"He has just progressed. He takes on advice really well. He's very, very professional in how he goes about things. He just works really hard on and off Back in January he lost in five sets in the second round of the Australian Open to Benoit Paire.

"It was a big step-up for him and it took its toll," explained Morris. "He got the bit between his teeth and has
